Training Approval, Recognition, Certification, and Authentication Process

Role of the Americas Certification Oversight Team (ACOT) Auditor Review Committee (AARC):

1. To support the ACOT with approval / denial decisions for applicant Accreditation Bodies (AB), Auditor Authentication Bodies (AAB), and Training Provider Approval Bodies (TPAB), as well as the concurrence with the decisions on Training Providers (TP), Training/Competency Courses, Certification Bodies (CB), and Aerospace Quality Management System (AQMS) Auditors.
2. Support ongoing oversight to ensure that the processes utilized by approved ABs, AABs, and TPABs are executed and maintained in compliance with industry requirements. This ongoing oversight is accomplished through process verification measures such as periodic or continual reviews of AB, AAB, and/or TPAB approval decisions. The actions of the committee are not an approval of the individuals or organizations that have applied to the AB, AAB, and/or TPAB but rather serve to verify that the decisions made by these bodies meet applicable requirements. Because AARC Members have no direct engagement in the execution of these processes and do not make the final decisions on behalf of ABs, AABs, and/or TPABs, team members remain independent and qualified to support other sector oversight activity without conflict.
